About Ryan and Ryan United

Ryan VanLuchene was just 8 years when he was at home playing in his back yard in a rural Montana town, when he was kidnapped, sexually assaulted, and murdered by a repeat sex offender. Before leaving prison just a few weeks prior, Ryan's abductor told prison officials he would commit another sex crime if he was released, and this time, he'd leave no witnesses.

Regardless of the daily heartache, Ryan's family has never given up fighting for the safety of children and assisting victim families, to ensure that Ryan's death was not in vain. Working with law enforcement, prosecutors, corrections officials, and communities, Ryan's family has worked to provide resources and tools to ensure that sensible solutions are brought to the forefront and used to protect our communities from child predation through the non-profit that honors Ryan's life, which has united us all.

Leg Up On Life Camp

The Leg up on Life Camp will bring together families who have faced the unthinkable by having a child or sibling fall victim to a crime involving abduction and/or murder. The camp will offer a peaceful, restorative atmosphere, in which families can get "a leg up" in their process of healing after facing this horrific experience. The camp will assist families in dealing with situations that seem insurmountable and provide them with the tools necessary to assist them throughout the grieving process.

Through a series of activities at the week-long camp, these families will interact with nature, qualified professionals, and other staff who have faced similar situations. This will be the first steps in addressing the process of life restoration.
